

Speeches/Remarks

Michael K. Sherman, michaelshermank@gmail.com

Prepared for:
Dan Storer, Managing Director, Healthcare Banking
Dinner Opening Remarks – 5 min.

OHCA/OCAL/OCID Annual Convention & Expo
An Evening at the Columbus Museum of Art

What a terrific way to end the day!

Good Evening and welcome! I'm Dan Storer, managing director of healthcare banking at Huntington, and we're very proud to support the OHCA and its many member organizations in this, our fourth year, as a gold sponsor of the annual OHCA conference.

I don't know about you, but I always find great venues like this one truly inspiring. And it helps all the more when you're surrounded by diverse masterworks created by some of the world's greatest artists.

In fact, any one here know what Cezanne, Monet, Picasso and Huntington have in common? (Pause) ...I'll tell you...

While works by Paul Cezanne, Claude Monet and Pablo Picasso can be found right here within these walls (and I urge you to seek them out and take a look at them), it was the work of Pelatiah Webster Huntington (The founder of the Huntington National Bank 150 years ago right here in Columbus) who helped create Ohio's first cultural nonprofit, the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts – known today as the Columbus Museum of Art.

In fact, P.W. Huntington, himself, served among the institution's founding trustees and as board president from 1902 to 1904. And in later years, his son (Francis Ropes Huntington) played an instrumental role in shaping the gallery's evolution into a full-fledged museum, and in forming its permanent collection.

Now all that aside, we're truly blessed to be celebrating our 150th at Huntington. Our story is one that can be told for generations through the lens of our colleagues and customers, as well as the communities where we live and work.

As you can imagine, our work in helping great institutions like this one build an enduring legacy is a source of great pride... it's the artistry of banking in its truest form.

Well, today we're just as passionate about working with customers and communities to make a difference, and our work supporting business endeavors across the healthcare community – particularly within the long-term care space – is no less rewarding.

At Huntington, we absolutely understand the unprecedented evolution you're facing within an ever-changing industry, whether you're challenged with the addition of new technologies, streamlined processes, or plans to renovate or expand facilities, or even build a new one.

Whatever your canvas, whatever your medium... whatever your inspiration, we know you're hard at work everyday creating masterworks of your own.

At Huntington, we offer an unmatched level of healthcare banking expertise and resources combined with 150 years of customer-focused artistry and an overwhelming desire to help you achieve.

So thank you for being here this evening... please enjoy the venue. I hope you come away as inspired as I do.

My colleagues and I look forward to getting to know you over dinner, and we'd be honored to explore the opportunity for Huntington to help your business thrive and shape a lasting legacy.